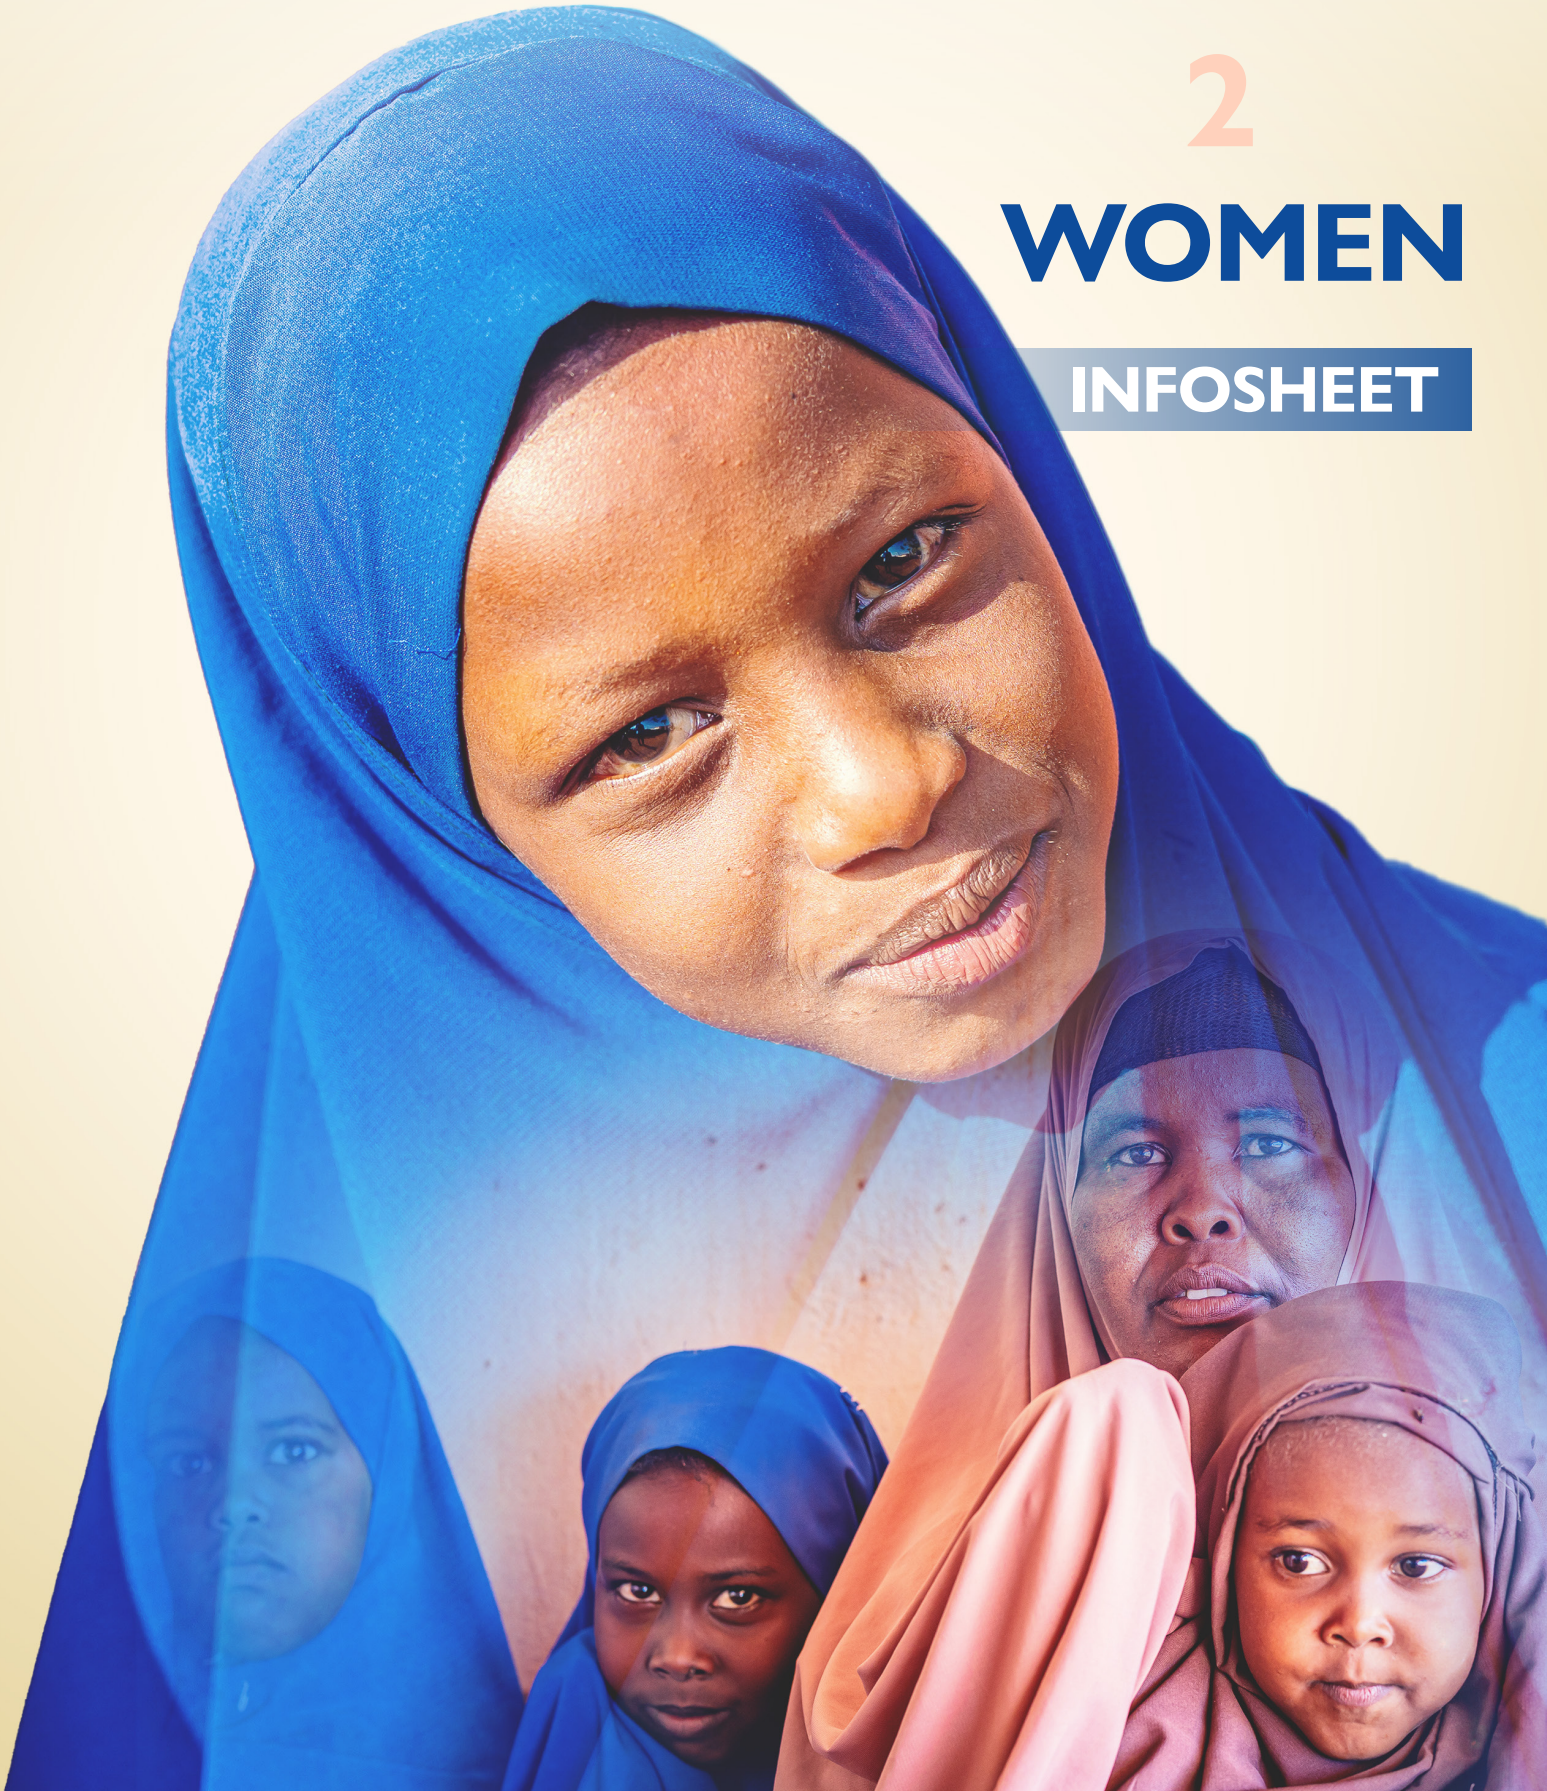
WOMEN 2 WOMEN

INFOSHEET



INTRODUCTION

Funded by the UK Integrated Security Fund (ISF), the W2W project aims to enhance the security and protection of women, girls, and minority groups in Somalia. It applies Participatory Action Research (PAR) to bring together women's groups, women's rights organizations (WROs), civil society organizations (CSOs), and diverse stakeholders to advocate for inclusive community protection and security.

Through the PAR method, women strengthen their skills, knowledge, and confidence, enabling them to actively participate in decision-making and address the root causes of insecurity.

WHAT WAS ACHIEVED IN THE PILOT

2021

2024

1 Created dialogue platforms between women and security actors

2 Established women's grassroots networks across Southwest State and Galmudug

3 Strengthened the advocacy skills of women leaders

4 Delivered tangible community safety improvements through micro-grants that addressed localized security issues

OUR PLAN FOR THE NEXT PHASE

1

Participatory System Mapping (PSM)
The project applies PSM by enabling women to identify key drivers of insecurity from their own perspective and use system mapping to highlight their skills and capacities in creating practical, locally achievable solutions

2

Facilitate Dialogues
Promotes horizontal dialogues among women, marginalized groups, and IDPs to raise their concerns, while vertical dialogues with government and security actors are used to advocate for change

3

Support Women-led Security Initiatives
Through a micro-grant mechanism that supports women-identified, issue-based security initiatives emerging from dialogues

4

Empower Women Leaders
Capacity building, mentorship, and leadership training will be provided to empower marginalized, IDP, and host community women to strengthen their voices in governance and security

5

Engage Men & Boys as Allies

The project works with male gatekeepers, duty bearers, and community members to promote positive masculinities, reduce backlash, and foster wider societal support for women's inclusion

OUR OBJECTIVES

1 Promote meaningful inclusion of women in peace and security governance

2 Enhance community safety through locally driven solutions

3 Build stronger partnerships between women, government, and security actors

4 Contribute to sustainable peace and protection in Somalia
